RHDOG at home in new Jackson Square studio

September 2009

Riezebos Holzbaur Group (RHDOG) is moving across town to a new studio.

The award-winning advertising, marketing, and design agency is moving from its original office in Potrero Hill to the Jackson Square neighborhood in downtown San Francisco.

In the past few years, RHDOG has added services and staff to accommodate the needs of their clients. The new studio will provide more space for the growing agency, as well as being more accessible to clients, with convenient nearby parking, dining, and other amenities. Although the setting will be different, the studio's core personnel and culture will remain the same. And with more space to stretch out, RHDOG's 15-person team should be able to expand their creative range as well.

RHDOG can now be found at 847 Sansome Street in San Francisco. Visitors are welcome, so drop by to check out the new digs and say hi!
